The Sun Controversy in Court

A. E. Pfremmer and Euretta Pfremmer, through their attorney, J. W. Lenahan, have filed their answer in the foreclosure proceedings instituted in Superior Court by E. F. Bunch. The date for the hearing of the case has not yet been set.

The Pfremmers allege misrepresentation in the sale of the Sun and petition for a rescission of contract, including the return of the down payment of $2000, and the cancellation of a series of notes, aggregating $1300. The purchase price of the Sun was $3300, instead of $1800, as stated in the Pine Cone by mistake.

The Sun editors regret the necessity of presenting the paper in its present diminutive form, but it is hoped that the case will speedily be settled so that the Sun may burst forth in greater effulgence. Many new features are planned, including a front-page heading worthy of the beauty of Carmel.

Social Credit Talk by Hampden

The good-sized group of Carmel people already supporting the Social Credit doctrine was augmented by interested townspeople who filled the old auditorium of Sunset school Thursday evening.

Walter Hampden, the famous Shakespearean actor, was the drawing card. His brief visit to Carmel was the occasion for calling the meeting. Mr. Hampden had agreed only to be present and perhaps answer a few questions, but once upon his feet his keen interest in Social Credit and his comprehensive knowledge of the subject carried him into an impromptu lecture that consumed the entire evening, and proved of absorbing interest as was evinced by the close attention of his hearers throughout.

The speaker explained the principles of Social Credit and urged its adoption as a remedy for the present world-wide economic chaos. He likened the existing order to an excavating job where an immense steam shovel was piling up huge mounds of earth that a man with a wheel-barrow was frantically attempting to remove. Unlimited power and labor-saving machinery have brought production to a high state of efficiency, he explained, but our methods of distribution are miserably inadequate and obsolete, hence we have poverty and distress in the midst of plenty.

Social Credit with its system of price discounts, national dividends and nationalized control of credit, would cure our present depression by putting purchasing power in the hands of the masses, thereby increasing consumption, restoring employment and replacing government relief with industrial activity.

The speaker declared that Social Credit was not communism, was not fascism, nor nazism, though sometimes likened to each and all by the uninformed. It does not interfere with the freedom of commerce nor destroy the initiative of the individual.

The meeting was opened by Miss Mary Bulkley, leader of the local Social Credit group, who while awaiting the arrival of Mr. Hampden, briefly outlined the principles of Social Credit.

LESLIE KING WINS SHORT STORY HONORS

Leslie King, secretary of the local Red Cross organization, has a short story, "Feet" in the March 1 issue of Controversy. Miss King's story was chosen as the first of a series of six to be published in a "new author" contest. Of the six stories to be published, two will be selected as prize winners.

Macon Disaster and Red Cross

Mr. Byington Ford, chairman of the Disaster Preparedness committee, called the semi-annual meeting and outlined to the sub-chairmen their various duties in case of disaster.

When the Macon crashed into the sea, National Headquarters telephoned to the Carmel Red Cross to have the Disaster Committee in readiness in case the survivors could not be rescued by some of the several warships near, and that there was a possibility of some of the men floating in to shore. When it was learned that the men had been rescued the committee was notified that they would no longer be needed.

This disaster, happening so close to home, made everyone feel the nearness and reality of calamity and the need of being prepared for any disaster that might occur. The meeting was well attended and very enthusiastically supported.

News from National Headquarters states that James L. Fleser, vice chairman of the domestic operations of the American Red Cross, had been appointed to act as chairman of the central committee to succeed Judge Barton Payne, who passed away after 14 years as chairman of this great organization.

RICKETSON PROVES BUSINESS IS GOOD

C. C. Ricketson, Peninsula Cadillac dealer, will leave soon for Detroit, a trip he will enjoy as a prize for being second high man in the state on Cadillac sales.

Mrs. William Ballis is here from Portland, Ore., for a stay of several weeks at Pine Inn. Mrs. Ballis has visited here every winter for several years.

Abalone League Sunday Games

By DOC STANIFORD

The games Sunday were very much like the weather — some things that happened were very good—but after the pitchers on the different teams delivered the ball, the fielders didn't know if they needed an umbrella or wooden kimo.

One of the highlights of the Blues-Pilots game was a hard-hit ball to Rosy Henry by Bill Staniford—it was a hard chance on anybody's field and Rosy made a good try for a fielding chance, but the ball sailed over Rosy's head and lo and behold we saw our dear little centerfielder disappear into a mustard patch—and when Rosy can disappear in a mustard patch, believe me—it is some mustard patch!

Personally I am glad to see so much interest in the games this year. We have a lot of the old gang together and we have the youngsters started. That's something. When I look over the old gang—I know them all—it certainly looks good. I wish I could say all I wanted to about Charlie Van Riper, but I am supposed to write about some ball game.

Well, in the first game the Pilots beat the Blues, 20-6. From an umpire's standpoint I don't think any more should be said. We know the Pilots won the game and if I told Helen Heavey her team was named the Blues, she would like to tell me about our California colors and blue and gold. Oh, alright, am still for California. The other game between the Shamrocks and the Giants was a game! The Shamrocks dropped so many hits into left field even the gophers couldn't make a living there, but with all the things that happened, the final score was Shamrocks 18, Giants 14. Oh, yes, By Ford pitched for the Shamrocks and Bardarson was catcher for the Giants. They both played a swell game.

I want to thank Tall Josselyn (the Judge Landis of the league)—great guy, and a peach on his knowledge of rules of the game—Ralph Zuck, an old-time baseballer and still a young athlete, and Dr. Gray, a real sport and—I wonder what he could do to these guys years ago? Anyway, we are having a lot of fun.—Thanks to Charlie Van Riper. How about it Tal.

I wish to say regarding the present standing of the clubs, it seems to be the best balanced the league has had for a long time. I wish at this time to congratulate the good sportsmanship of all the players and I know we will keep it so—to the end of the season.

Scots Open with "Bonnie Prince Charlie"

Drama, fun, and melody will make the Sunset School Auditorium ring this week-end, when the Scottish Musical Players, with their bagpipes, their kilts, and their lusty voices play their engagement with the Denny-Watrous Gallery, presenting three different plays in the auditorium.

"Bonnie Prince Charlie," dramatic story of the last of the Stuarts and his attempt to regain the throne, opens the engagement on Friday evening, at 8:30 o'clock. Outstanding among the songs in this first production, is Mary McMahon's singing of "Flora McDonald's Lament." Miss McMahon has a soprano voice of clear, bell-like quality. Gordon Douglas, baritone, sings "The March of the Cameron Men." Other songs, given in solo, duet or ensemble on this first evening, are "What Wedna Fecht for Charlie," "Speed Bonnie Boat," "The Fluter's Ball," "Battle of Stirring," and many others.

On Saturday afternoon, "The Bonnie Brier Bush," after Ian Maclaren's story, will be given. At this matinee all school children, grammar or high school, will be admitted for 25 cents. In this play, Gordon Douglas, baritone, plays the part of Dr. McClure, and William T. Wilson, the comedian, plays Posty, the village letter-carrier. Ann Forsyth is piper and dancer. She does a Highland Fling, a 3word Dance, and in one of the plays an Irish jig.

The final offering of the Scots is "The Cotter's Saturday Night," fittingly on Saturday night. Here is seen the simple, homely life of the Scottish lowlands, singing a blessing, "The Lord is my Shepherd" as they sit down to supper. Later they all do the Scottish reel. Ann Forsyth, piper, does a Highland Fling, and such songs as "John Anderson, My Jo," "Ye Banks and Braes o' Bannie Doon," "Loch Lomond," "Annie Laurie," "Auld Lang Syne," "Scots Wha Hae Wi' Wallace Bled" and many others are introduced into the action. William Wilson, comedian, as Tammas Cuthbertson, the neighbor, telling jokes, is priceless.

"How different from an ordinary lamp," you will say when you examine one of the new Sight Saving lamps.

It is different of course. Its advanced principle of design means better light and better light means a new measure of comfort and protection when reading, sewing or doing other visual work.

Best of all, the Sight Meter, that scientific instrument for measuring light, shows that the new Better Light lamps give 20 to 30 footcandles of light—the correct amount for normal reading or study. This is several times as much light as you get from an ordinary lamp.

Good light costs less today than ever before. Electric light is cheap—especially so with 1/2 OFF on EXTRA electricity now available to you each month throughout 1935.

"Perennials"

The second meeting of the month of the garden section was held on Thursday, February 21, at the home of Mrs. Joseph Hooper, Carmel Real and Thirteenth.

The special speaker for the occasion was Prof. Wilbur B. Howes, of San Luis Obispo Polytechnic, who took for his subject, "Perennials." Prof. Howes has had much experience in gardening, and the beautiful grounds of the Polytechnic give evidence of his skill and knowledge.

In leading up to his subject, the speaker spoke at length and most instructively on soil conditions. This is most important, if one wishes fine bloom. A necessary amount of humus, or organic matter, must be added. Peat is better than leaf mold, in his opinion, as it does not hold weed seeds. In this region along the coast, there is plenty of potassium in the soil, but nitrogen and phosphorus are lacking. Nitrogen is needed to provide height to plants; phosphorus is necessary for abundant bloom; and the potassium is the regulator between the two. Cow manure is high in all three of these necessary chemicals. Fish manure is good for feeding, but is tricky. Acts like garlic in a stew. Put on too thick, it will give off so much nitrogen that it will kill the roots of plants. It must be used sparingly. Its properties take effect in three days. Bone-meal is good for continued use, but takes from 30 to 45 days to act. Blood-meal is an excellent tonic for plants, one tablespoon used to a gallon of water. This is fine for ferns put on once a month. Lime is a soil conditioner, and makes it possible for plants to take up food. Prof. Howes stressed the point that the condition of the soil is all-important to growing good plants, perennials or any other kind.

Speaking on the control of pests, Professor Howes recommended nicotine dust for aphids; arsenate of lead for chewing insects; dusting with sulphur for mildew; and Vicks for mealy bug. He concluded his talk with a list of perennials, giving their habits, likes and needs, and those likely to do best on the Monterey peninsula. Among this list he mentioned columbine, primroses, cineraria, alyssum and thalictrum.

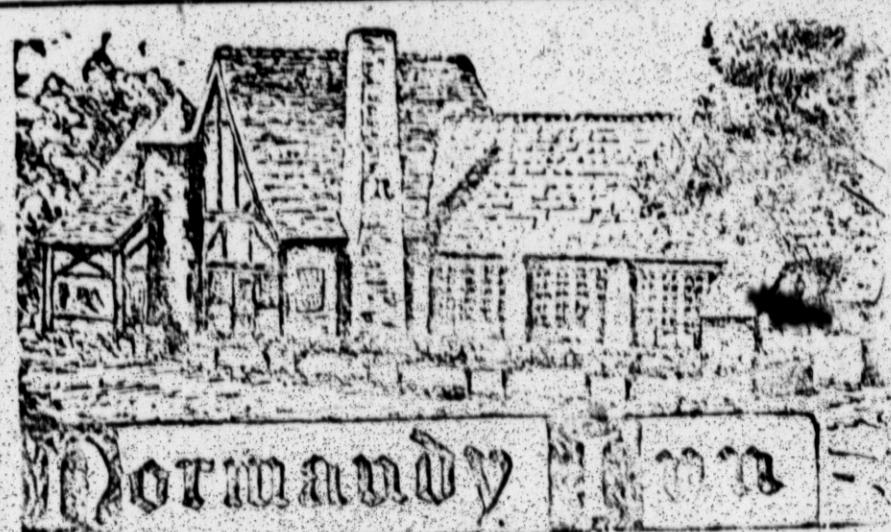

WOMAN'S CLUB

Section Meetings

Section meetings scheduled for the first week in March will be as follows: The Book Section will meet on Wednesday, March 6 at 10 a. m. at the Girl Scout House. Four ladies will give a group review of the following books: Mrs. Louisa Barty, "Iamb in the Bottom"; Miss Cineraria Pierce, "Now in November"; Miss Mabel Turner, "Dawn on the Grass"; and Miss Agnes Knight, "A Child Went Forth".

The Card Section will meet on Thursday, March 7, at 10 a. m. at the residence of Mrs. I. N. Ford, Eleventh and Junipero. Mrs. Morris Beck, Wild will give a talk on "The Fragrant Garden."

The Bird Study Group has resumed its Tuesday morning meetings. Those interested should get in touch with the leader, Mr. Laidlaw Williams, who appoints the meeting place for each week.

Rumors.

When news is lacking, rumors are plentiful. Just now the big question concerns the appointment of a new councilman to succeed Robert Norton, who resigned to become chief of police. The appointment will take place tomorrow night in all probability, but definite information for publication is not yet available. Allen Knight, John Jordan, E. L. Taylor, Gertrude Rendtorff and a host of other prominent citizens have been mentioned, but there has been no decision.

Another rumor has to do with the police and fire commissionership left vacant by Norton. "They say" that a petition is to be presented tomorrow night, asking that Bernard Rountree be given the job, instead of John Catlin. It has something to do with the fire ladies having backed Rountree for councilman and expecting him to be fire commissioner as a result. Oh well, it wouldn't be any fun if there weren't something brewing in the political kettle. One thing certain, the police commissioner and the chief should be in harmony if Carmel is to benefit and that fact should be taken into consideration, regardless of personalities.

Among San Franciscans registered at the La Riberia this weekend were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Maloney.

The SUN GARDEN NOOK

Mrs. F. Austin Phillips.

Mrs. Phillips writes regularly for the Sun and will gladly answer through our columns any questions addressed to her at the office of the Carmel Sun.

FLOWERS FROM SEED

Never has a season promised greater success for planting seeds than this year. Heavy rains have made the ground easy to cultivate and if you plant reliable seeds, success is practically certain.

Seeds germinate best when they are fresh—that is, less than one year old. Better results, too, in germinating, are secured when the seeds are sown in a specially prepared seed bed. In this way, one may protect the young plants from cold, insects and fungi with less effort and time. We usually find, on transplanting, that unconsciously we choose the healthiest plants, which double our chances for success in strong, healthy bloom.

Open planting in the garden calls first for proper preparation of the seed bed. Fork or spade the ground to a depth of at least six inches. If it is still fairly moist, let it lie, after turning up, for a day or two. Then attack it with a long-toothed rake and work it fine for several inches down;—the finer the better.

Some seeds need soaking overnight, others do not. Some should be planted thickly and others thinly. It would take pages to list each variety. For best results, ask the advice of the man who sells you your seeds.

A dependable rule for the depth of planting your seed is three or four times the diameter of the seed. The finer and the more moist the soil, the shallower the planting.

In general planting, I suggest you open a shallow furrow, sow the seed, cover immediately and firm the soil with the back of the rake. Level the surface, by raking, leaving a little mulch on top. Avoid sprinkling, as this would form a crust on top, excluding air and making it difficult for the tiny seeds to break through. After the plants are up, they may be thinned or irrigated. Follow each irrigation with surface cultivation to break the crust that may form.

When the plants are sufficiently developed, thin out a few, or rather, enough to allow room for the remaining plants to develop. When transplanting these young seedlings, be sure to take sufficient soil with each one so as not to disturb the roots. Pack in carefully, not allowing air to reach the roots. When the new plants are removed, planted as above, and watered, nothing further is required other than general garden care.

It, indeed, gives one the greatest pleasure to say with pride, "I grew these from seed."

Among the quick annuals which may be sown in March directly in the ground, for spring and early summer cutting, are: Ageratum, African daisies, Alyssum, Brachyscome, Callicopsis, Hunnemania, candytuft, cornflower, Clarkia, cosmos, Godetia, Gypsophila, Larkspur, Linaria, Lobelia, Linum, nasturtium, Mesembryanthemum, Nicotiana, petunia, phlox, poppies, Salpiglossis, Scabiosa, and verbena.

For late blooming,—plant seeds of annual canterbury bells, aster, begonia, carnation, balsam, calceolaria, dahlia, marigold, and Virginia stock.

Have you seen the new gold medal orange cosmos (Orange Flare)? This new variety is more dwarf in growth and its early flowering habit includes it with the best summer annuals.

Noteworthy, too, is a beautiful yellow aster, named Golden Sheaf. This is heralded as the first fine yellow aster to be produced. It is wilt resistant. The flowers are full double, with crested and curled centers. There is also a vivid crimson-scarlet aster. (Dianthus Splendens).

Those of you who have not seen the orange shaggy, will hardly recognize it as a calendula. It is a beautiful, laciniate, petaled type of brilliant orange.

Zinnia Fantasy is perhaps the most striking novelty of them all. It is one of the curled and crested types—really quilled and twisted in a mixture of colors. It grows two to two and one-half feet tall.

GARDEN NOTES

California golden poppies are blazing over near Edison, in the Bakersfield district. The display is the most brilliant in several years.

Lupines are beginning to show at Arvin, in the same vicinity.

Many varieties of wild flowers are beginning to bloom at the foot of the "grapevine" on the state highway. I am told they are exceptionally fine this season.

And, but by no means least,

Mrs. Andrew Stewart entertained the directors of the League of Women Voters at her home on February 27. At this time plans were completed for the league's March luncheon meeting, which will be held on Thursday, March 14, instead of the usual Wednesday, at Holman's Solarium. Professor Samuel Chester May of the University of California will be the speaker, his subject to be "Trend of County Government and Taxes." He will also appear on a program arranged by Mrs. Carl Voss of Salinas, chairman of the government and its operation section.

Mrs. Voss' study group is having two meetings in March. The first on March 12 at her home in Salinas

at which Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger will review "Brochure on Taxation" by Harry Grant. The other meeting will be held at the home

Mr. and Mrs. Salzberger of Robies Del Rio Inn spent several days in Oakland last week.

J. Weaver Kitchen of Kitchen's Plumbing shop in Carmel, attended a code meeting in Salinas last Friday night. He was accompanied by Ed Simpson of Pacific Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Boisot of Pasadena left Saturday morning after spending several days at their place in the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Weaver Kitchen of Carmel spent the week-end at their cabin in Cachagua.

The little Misses Joan and Barbara Barnes of Cachagua spent the week-end at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wallace of Pacific Grove.

RIPPLES FROM THE BIG SUR

Mrs. W. C. Everett

The Big Sur district enjoyed a delightful rain Thursday night and Friday.

A fine crowd enjoyed the community picnic Sunday. The combination of a good program and delicious food was irresistible.

The Musers' club will meet with Mrs. Newell this Thursday. The subject to be studied will be California history. The little road leading to the house has been repaired and is now safe for travel.

Mr. M. Diggs, a cattle buyer from King City, was a visitor at the Castro Ranch last week. The Boggs family from Piedmont were there, too.

Mr. Fred Crawford of Sycamore Canyon, who accidentally took lysol two weeks ago, is out of the hospital and is convalescing at the home of his friends, the George Fosters, near Vacaville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pfeiffer are now living in their new home. The house is built of Monterey stone, and is modern and beautiful. It contains a conservatory which Mrs. Pfeiffer plans to fill with lovely plants. Her success, horticulturally, is well known.

FRESNO PLAYERS TO BE IN CARMEL NEXT WEEK

Edward Kuster has returned from Fresno, where he staged another of his successful productions with the Fresno Players, "Another Language," the play which was scheduled to appear here last weekend, with the Fresno Players as guest artists, was postponed, due to illness in the cast, and will be given at the Playhouse March 16 and 17.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Austin Phillips were in from Big Sur Sunday.

Professor Vandercroft was formerly a member of the faculty of Northwestern University. Included in the party were the Misses Sterling and Mr. James Sterling, all of San Francisco.

MME. PIRENNE IN
TALK ON LOUIS XIV

A talk on Louis XIV with slides will be given on Monday, March 11 at 8:15 p. m. at All Saints Parish Hall by Mme. Jeanne Pirenne.

Taking a modern point of view, she will show the "Roi Soleil" very much ahead of his time, his influence on a society just out of the barbarous middle ages, the excuse of many errors of his private life and how the democratic spirit of a court that stood centuries ago for art and beauty led the way to our modern civilization.

LIBRARY STORY HOUR IS POPULAR

All the very young fry may usually be found at the Library on Fridays between 3:15 and 5:00 or thereabouts. Mrs. Winifred Prince tells stories to them at that time, and it's just offered as a suggestion to busy mothers, who might enjoy a little free time shopping. Most of the children range from three to seven years, but bigger brothers and sisters are seen in the offing, cocking a furtive ear toward the story-teller.

Program for Musica! Arts Club

Miss Madeline Currey, supervisor of music in Sunset School, is in charge of the program for the Musical Arts club to be held tonight at the home of Mrs. T. W. Van Ess at the Country Club. An unusual feature of tonight's program will be the performance of several works by local composers. Composers represented will include Thomas Vincent Cator, Mary Root Kern, and Bee Bradley. Among the soloists will be Dr. Lawrence Knox, Miles Bain, Ethel Ervine and Andrew Sessink. Dorothy Heer, Madeline Currey and Mrs. Sessink will be the accompanists.
